BALMA AS A BRIDE.

By FRANCES A. WALKER.

I had often heard my mother and grandmother describe the negro wedon the plantations in the old ways in Virginia before the war. How The dining-room (generally) would be bergrated for the occasion, and the musseientious mistress would see that make and wine were provided, that Judy, or Betty, or Saily (as the case sought be), had a white dress and her roup a new suit of clothes, and that were properly married by the nearest Episcopal minister-who never failed to admonish them beforehand on the solemnity of the marriage tie and their duty to each other.

As earnest effort was made to impress upon them the sacramental character of the act, and everything was done "decently and in order"-so that I was very interested when a friend in Mississippi, on whose plantation I was visiting, informed me that her mald "Balma" was going to he mouried, and I must certainly witness the ceremony.

"What an odd name!" I volunteered. Where did she get it?"

We asked her mother that," said my friend, "and she said: 'Don't you gread yo' Bible? Ain't you never heer'd the Balma Gllead?' So she's called "Electrona" for short."

"How very funny!"

"Yes, but It's nothing to the names the twins, the youngest members me her family, two of the most absurd Made pickaninnies you ever saw. They called respectively 'Postle Paul "Pistle Peter,' and will, no doubt, figure at the wedding."

A few days later, when I went into saw friend's room, she was busily engaged in finishing off a white organdle for Bnima's nuptials, and was conthe suplating it with a good deal of satfutaction, when the "bride-elect" walkwe in with a bolt of excruciatingly hlue withou and asked her, "plense, ma'am, he trim it up with that." So, although M went sadly against the grain, and wounded all our aesthetic sensibilities. we festooned, and looped, and romethod the garment to sny extent to Falma's great satisfaction. She showevery tooth in her head and proawunced it "jes' dszzlln'!" which it pertainly was.

The preparations being finally comhete, we were duly summoned to the rabia of the bride's mother, where the weremony took place in due and anchest form.

Age of Specialists. There is much of great significance in the report by focal experts that, side by side with the luability of a prest many men and women to procare employment, there is the inability of employers to get workers to fill Dr. places they have open. This statement reveals clearly that under the remaplicated processes of modern inwhistry a man's whilingness to work is far from qualifying him for work wziting to he done. The person wishang to be sure of employment must specialize in one or more of the many Zaeses of work for which there seems always to be a senreity of labor. CHILDREN ARE REAL POETS

Descriptions of Ordinary Things Show imaginative Fancy That Does Not Survive the Years.

Children are born with a taste for knowledge. They want to know, and they want to know the right things. They ask questions, and are not easily satisfied. They are fond of imitating what they see around them. They are highly imaginative. They clothe their ideas in concrete forms. There was a time when they were regarded as immature aduits; we have learned that the main nim of a teacher must be to give the right tone to the feelingsgoodness in the abstract is of little avaii; the imagination must be stirred.

We are accustomed to believe that there is little reflection on the part of children and yet one cannot but see now and again gleams of thought which suggest a hidden mental power working almost unconsciously. The littie girl who "gathered sunlight in her hands and put it on her face" knew something of the effects of heat. And how full of humor are some of the snyings of children, It was Punch, we believe, who depicted Tommy, after he had been severely corrected. as excluding: "I fink I'll go back to heaven, where I came from." what a fund of suggestion was conveyed by the little girl who, on henring a running tsp, said that "the Water was coughing!"

The poetry of life is frequently seen in childhood. We have this illustrated in the descript of butterflies as "pansies flying. A star is a cinder from God's great star" has a wealth of unconscious meaning. But perhaps the finest approach to poetry was made by a tiny tot who defined dew as "the grass crying." Oh, nuntie!" said the fittle girl, "I've just seen a pencil waiking." The nurse. who had grown out of fairyland, explained that it was only an ordinary

OBSERVE MONTH OF RAMIDAN

Period That Is Considered Most Holy by the Followers of the Prophet Mohammed.

It is the holy month of Ramidan In Constantinople. By reason of the declaration in the Koran "that the number of the months is tweive (lunar months), as it was ordained by Aliah," in the course of thirty-three years Ramidan makes the entire circult of the seasons. It was on the 15th of the holy month of Ramidan that the first chapter of the Koran was delivered to men. On that day the sultan goes to the "Chamber of the Sacred Maatle." This mantle was worn by the prophet and on this day it and other relics of the prophet sre brought out to public view. Other relics are banners which once hung before the tent of his favorite wife Ayesha, and the prophet'a beard. which is more potent in strength than the hair of Samson, and invigorates all who may touch it; a tooth which Mohammed had knocked from his jaw when struck by a stone from a sling in battle, and a chunk of lime with a and driven higher in the ends of the of his magic steed, Al Borak, "the lightning." It was upon this animal thrown over the top of the frame and Simple Portable Elevator.

The revolvator is a portable elevntor which is designed for use in warehouses and storehouseswhere it may be desired to stack heavy packages one above the other for the economizing of space. It consists of a truck which may be readily moved about the room and an upright arm supportlag a platform on which the box or package is placed. Reaching the point desired, the machine and Its load may be readily swung around into the most convenient position for unlonding and the burden is raised to the height necessary and the box is pushed off oa top of another similar box. Severni men might be requiredto perform this task, but with this device one or two nt the most are entirely sufficient to handle the large and heavy packages.

HOW TO FUMIGATE HEN HOUSE

Building Should Be Closed Tightly and All Fowls Excluded-Be Careful of Poison Used.

Fumigation is n means of reaching terms and insect life in the air of he room and in the crncks and cranaies of the wood work, says the Cuitlvator. The house or room should be ightiv closed and all fowls excluded furing fumigation. A simple method to burn the sulphur candles now old at stores dealing in poultry supolies. The fumes of brimstone may also be produced by burning in n metallic basin (such as an old iron kettle) a number of rags previously soaked in meited sulphur. Sulphur may be mixed with a little alcohol or kerosene oli and hurned, or it mny be sprinkled upon live coals placed in a chafing dish. The house or room should be kept closed for several hours and then opened as thoroughly as possible to allow the wind to drive out any remaining trace of poisonous gas. In fumigating by burning substances be careful not to set fire to the building. Remember also that in most cases the substances which are used are poisonous to human life and to fowls. USING A FIRELESS BROODER

Box Protected by Wool Carpet and Heated by Small Jug of Warm Water is Excellent.

A there are many poultrymen who prefer to raise chicks in n fireless brooder, we give here a plan suggested by W. D. Neale, which has been used successfully for two years, says the lowa Homestead. He secured a box three feet long, aixteen inches and eight inches deep from his grocer for fifteen cents. An opening was made in one side of the box four inches in width and height to admit the chicks. To fit in this box, make a frame of laths two inches less in width and length than the box. The laths were placed about three inches apart and nailed securely to crosa piecea at either end. This frame fitted inside the box and rested on nails, two at each end, driven through the box at the desired height. These nalls were withdrawn footprint in it made by the prophet box as the chicks grew so that they frame. A piece of wool carpet was pressed down beneath the lath so that the folds would just touch the downy backs of the chicks. On cold nights an extra piece of carpet was thrown over the box or n small jug of warm water placed inside. The bottom of the box was kept covered with straw.

Never harbor mongrel atock. Don't forget to whitewash the in erior of your houses.

Expect disease and low vitality when fowls are inbred year in aud year out.

Send to market all the stock that you can spare, for the prices of feed are atill high. Plump chickens are wanted in market; remember that lousy chickens will not fatten. From October 15th to about November 20th the best prices for poultry are generally obtained. New blood may be added to the lock, by buying some choice pulicts of a reliable poultry keeper.

Lining nest boxea with newspapers makes it easy to lift out fitter, paper and ali. Then aet a match to it. Authorities claim that the egga rom a hen will be fertile for ten lays after the removal of the male from the flock. Do not let your young birds roost with the old hens, as they are liable to catch diseases which old hens are more aubject to. All hens which have completed their second laying aeason should be disposed of at once, to make room for the young stock:

Phrases, Passing Through Genera-tions, Become Distorted Before Generally Acknowledged.

Word building is as much a piece of carpentry as is house building. Only it takes longer. Sometimes a century more. And by that time the word's first meaning is usually chang-

For example, the old word for 'neighhor" was "slb." One's good neighbor was known as one's "good This became shortened to 'godsib,' and later to "gossip." Then the word's whole meaning changed and gossip no longer meant good neighbor, but applied to the sort of tnik exchanged between good neigh-

Take the word "farmer." too. The old word for "fermer" was "boor." (And "boor" later was used for describing farmer-like or rough per sons.) The farmer living nearest to one was known as the "nighboor." and this plurase. In course of time, was twisted to "neighbor."

You've heard the proverb, "Little Well. It pitchers have big ears." doesn't refer to the utensil that holds water or goes to the corner side door. "Pitcher" was a slang term with some such meaning as our word 'chap' or "fellow." Thus, "Little fellows have "big ears" is a more sensible rendering of the proverb.-Chicago

PRETTY LANGUAGE OF LOVE

In Switzerland Flowers Are Made Use of by Those Who Seek Their Companions in Life.

In remote Alpine hamlets and vii lages especially in the Bernese Ober land there still exist ancient and pretty customs of proposing marriage by the language of flowers. If a maid accepts a bouquet of edeweiss from a accepts a bouquet of edelweiss from a him as her flance, the idea being that the man has risked his life to obtain the flowers for the woman he loves.

Another method which exists in the Canton of Glarus is for the young man to pisce a flowerpot containing a single rose and a note on the window sill of the girl's room when she is ab aent from home and wait-perhaps days-for a reply. If the maid takes the rose, the young man boldly en ters the house to arrange matters with her parents, but if the rose is allowed to fade away the proposal is re jected without a single word having been exchanged between the counie Sometimes a fickle giri will keep a young man waiting a day or two for an answer, but whatever it may be it is considered finni.

Secret of Happiness.

Most of us begin well. When we are quite young, we'sre full of faith We believe in others, and we also he lieve in our own powers of overcoming faults and failings.

We set out full of the zest of lifeno hiil is too high to climb, no point too lofty to reach.

But later most of us get discour so noble as we thought them, that I' is much harder to root out our faults and fallings than we imagined, and perhaps in time to take up the fooi ish, soul-destroying idea that so iong as we are "no worse than other peo ple" it is all right. Let us try to keep the high ideal:

that we lenrned at our mother's knee to Cli keep our faith in human na ture, no matter how often we may be disappointed. Let us atili strive for perfection and resolve to do our beat again and again, no matter how ofter again and again, no matter how ofter we may fail. For only by doing this can we keep our hearta young, bowever old we may live to be, and only so can we be our best and do our

When an Ecuador Indian wants binaket, he hunts up a demajagua tree and cuts from it a five or six fooi section of the peculiarly soft, thick bark. This is dampened and beater until the flexibility of the sheet is much increased.

The rough gray exterior is next peeled off and the sheet dried in the sun. The result is a blanket, soft. light and fairly warm, of an attrno tive cream color. It may be roiled into a compact bundle without hur and with ordinary usage will fast for several years.

Birds Commit Suicide.

A very strange occurrence in na tional history has been seen in the flooded country of the Fen diatrict in eastern England. A narrow bank runs niongside a flooded area of near ly 2,000 acrea. Walking along this with intention of learning what had happened to his partridges, a keeper put up a covey. It flew in the direction of the longest arm of the flood. The birds, which were rather a latehatched covey, after flying some distance, suddenly and at one moment together dropped into the water and were all drowned.

It has been much discussed fately how the partridges are able to fly, but the curious part of this collapse was that the whole number fell simui taneously, as if they had decided to die together.

Senator O'Gorman, who is opposed to fixing any definite time for giving the Filipinos a free hand, takes the view that they may not be equal to the task for one or two generations or even-longer. As the senator from New York is close to Governor Wilson, it may be assumed that he has so advised the president elect. DIVINE JUSTICE

IN THE DELUGE

The Deluge Rightly Understood Was an Act of Mercy, Delivering Man From Slavery.

Pastor Russell'e Interpretations Unlock Bible Mysteries-Dark Statements Made Luminous-Lucifer by Rebellion Became Satan-How His Evil Example Was Permitted to Test the Loyalty of All the Holy Angels.

Dayton, Ohlo, February 9.-Great erowila heard Pastor Itnssell today at Memorial Hull. He spoke twice. We report his discourse on the Deluge from the text. The tood came, and took them all nway." - Matthew 24:39.

1 continue today my subject of a week ago at Brooklyn. I am contident that many of you keep in touch with my weekdiscourses through the newspapers. Last Sunday we considered the physical causes which led to the Delnge, and found them most reasonable. In full harmony with history soft leather preferred-and a pligrim's and geology. Today we consider the cloak, hood, knupsack and staff. The Deluge from a different standpoint, costume may be purchased at the wo-We shall show from the Bible why man suffrage party headquarters. God permitted the Deinge, and that He was fully justitled in blotting out humanity, except Noah and his family.

The Pastor showed that Adam, crented perfect, could have maintained that perfection by continued obedience to his Maker. When Satan obsessed the serpent and galded it to eat the forbidden fruit, he produced a temptation. Eve saw that the serpent was not poisoned by that fruit, but that It was the wisest of the animnis. She thought increased wisdom would make her husband and herself like gods.

Only the Divine command stood between her and the highest ideals. She partook of the fruit and recommended It to Adam. He knew that death would surely follow disobedience; but he preferred to die rather than to be separated from Eve.

Disobedience led to expulsion from Eden, and the gradual execution of the sentence, "Dylug thou shult die." Adam dled within the thousand-year Day in which he ate-nine hundred thirty years old. His race inherit his dying tendencies. Humanity are under the curse of death, sald the Pastor.

The Deluge a Deliverance,

Pastor Russell proceeded to show that seconling to the Bible the Deluge was a blessing in disguise. Mankind had gotten into slavery, and would have been wiped out hy a new race, most peculiarly intruded upon humanlty. The Bible states that this race consisted exclusively of unles, propagated by the human female. These were glants, "men of renown."

unable to cope with the apperior strength of the intruders. Robbed of their wives and daughters, and compelled to drudge for their new musters, mankimi found life a burden. The Pastor then showed that the children of this illicit union were giauts, renowned at a time when mankind rarely reached muturity earlier than a century. Genesis 6:4 proved that these bestlul glants filled the earth with violence.

Hope For the Antediluvians. Pastor Russell pointed out that these giants cannot be included in the redemptive work of Jesus, who died only for Adam's posterity. (I Corluthians 15:22.1 The antedliuviaus of Adam's race have the same hope of a resurrection that the remainder of mankind have. This menus, he said, a hope of Itestitution, to the perfection lost in Eden. This hope rests on God's promise that all the families of the earth shall be blessed in Ahraham's Seed, "which Seed is Christ"-Jesus, the Head, and the Church, the members. in the Messianie Kingdom the Seed will accomplish the blessing foreordained. St. Paul says, "If ye be Christ's, according to the promise.' Next Sunday Pastor Itussell will show what penulty Divine Justice has imposed upon Satan and his angelie rebels. Receiving a Bible from Colored People of Baltimore, October, 1864.

The Importance for man and beast of the prescribed weskly rest, the secred rights of Christian soldiers and sallors, a becoming deference to the best santiments of a Christian people, and a dus ragard for tha Divins will, demand that Sunday labor in the army and navy be reduced to the massurs of strict necossity.

Lincoln and the Humorists. During some of Lincoln's daily vis-Its to the war department there were many spare moments while he waited for fresh news from the front or for the translation of cipher messages, and when he did not fill up the otherwise idle time by teiling stories he would read aloud some humorous article from a newspaper, as, for instance, Orpheus C. Kerr'a droil reports from Mackerelville, or Petroleum V. Nashy'a letters in sarcastic vein: at other times Arcemus Ward's inimitable lectures. Some of Nasby'a letters were irresisibly funny, especially those relating to the continuous struggle for the postoffice at "Confedrit Cross Roads" and to the backwardness of some of our generals, relates David Homer Bates in the Ceniury.

Abraham Lincoln By W. J. LAMPTON

WHICH reminds me"he loved sunshine And through the dreadful night That held this land In its bloody hand He was the beacon light Of Freedom and of Union, And sad, though brave and strong, He held the Nation faithful To right instead of wrong.

"Which reminds me"—that the glory
Of Lincoln shall not fade, And what he gave To freeman and slave Forevermore has made

This Nation one in spirit, The spirit that shall hold
Our Flag unfurled
To the whole wide world In a story God has told.

Lincoln Never Had Complete Rest During Civil War.

Unpretentious House, a Cottage in the Soldiers' Home Grounds, Where He Spent the Hot Months, Still is Object of Reverent Interest.

While our recent national chief executives have fled from Washington and its summer heat and moved to cool aummer capitals, as, for instance, Buzzards Bay, Oyater Bay and Bev-erly, Lincoln in his day was forced ever to remain on guard in the nation's capital the year through.

During his four troubious years in Washington he took no vacation and his summer residence was within easy ride of the seat of government.

The Anderson cottage, in the aoldiers' home grounds, was his summer home, and it was here, guarded hy a company of cavalry, that he lived while handling the reins of government through the Civil war. He rode to the White House every day and returned at night, the hour more often than not being late.

His simplicity of laste was such that he would gladly heve ridden without escort, but the secretary of war, the trenchant Stanton, insisted on the cavalry estort, for the president's safety.

Lincoln said he did not want it; he "couldn't hear himself think" with the soldiers clattering along beside, before and hebind him. But with his usual complaisance in what he deemed non-essentials, he yielded. Sometimes he rode horseback, accompanied by the escort. At times he was called on to make a sudden journey from his cottage to the White House One such call was on the receipt of news of the reverse at Chickamauga. Lincoln mounted his horse and rode in the moonlight to the White House, to take up the task of organizing the means of ultimate triumph out of what looked like defeat.

Visitors to Washington today look at the summer home of Lincoln with reverent interest. It is about four miles from the White House, to the north, and though tall buildings lie between it and the heart of the city, a little vista has been kept open through which may be seen from the grounds the dome of the Capitol.

Lincoln's Usual Swear Word. On one occasion Lincoln, when entering the telegraph office, was heard to remark to Secretary Seward, "By jings, governor, we are here at last." Turning to him in a reproving manner, Mr. Seward said: "Mr. President, where did you learn that inelegant expression?" Without replying to the secretary, Lincoln addressed the operators, saying: "Young gentlemen, excuse me for swearing before you. 'By jings' is swearing, for my good old mother taught me that anything that had a 'by' before it was swearing." The only time, however, that Lincoln was ever heard really to swear was on the occasion of his receiving a telegram from Burnside, who had been ordered a week before to go on to the relief of Rosecrans at Chattanooga, who was in great danger of an attack from Hragg. On that day Burnside telegraphed from Jonesboro, further away from Rosecrans than he was when he received the order to hurry toward him. When Burnside's telegram graphed Burnside as follows: "September 21, 1863. "If you are to do any good to Rosecrans it will not do to waste time at Jonesboro. A. LINCOLN." -- David Homer Bates, in the Cen-

CHARM HARD TO ANALYZE

Its Presence Easily Felt, but Descrip-tion Will Be Found a Thing of Some Difficulty,

Over half of our American girls work. They stand helind counters, bend over muchines, sit at desks, and march, milltant figures, in the procession of industries that seem to block the road to girlish grace and lighthenrtedness and freedom from care. One woman who has worked among and written books about and found inspiration in the working girl says that charm sometimes drifts down. unawares, a ihing ephemeral, a gift of the gods to the girl who has had to work so hard that she has had no time to think about her lack of heauty.

"I wish I knew wherein charm lies: but I don't know, although I've studied it and tried to analyze it as much ns most folks have, I suspect. In books, in pictures, in people, in places, I've met mnny, many kinds of charm: hut I've never heen able to say just what it was that chnrmed me. Certainly it was never mere beauty, nor mere intelligence, nor mere cheerfulness, nor mere kindliness. I've seen beauty that bored, and listened to cleverness that repelled, and met with cheerfulness that was inane and with kindliness that was exaspernting. Charm is a gift of the gods, and it cannot be wooed like fame, nor won like money, nor hought like titles, nor developed like patience, nor seized like a prize o' war. If it comes, it comes; and if it's thought on too much, it flies away. And there's an end on it."-Mother'a Magazine.

LESSON FROM THE PROFESSOR

Old Gentleman Was Perfectly Convinced That the Youngster Was Competent to Give It.

The old gentleman wondered where the young couple had got to, for it was getting late. He rather suspected they had wandered out into the garden, so he wended his steps in that direction. He soon came across the young people, and found them in a most interesting attitude. The young man had the fair girl clasped in hoth his arms, and was kissing her as if he hadn't tasted such a dainty for at least five minutes.

The old gentleman watched the osculatory performance to the finishwhich he found to he somewhat weary work-and then made his presence

"isn't it very laie for you young people to he out?" he said. "It is—is rather, pa," faltered the fair girl; "but-but Mr. Popple has heen giv-giving me a lesson in asastronomy.' "My stars!" ejaculated the old gentleman. "He has, and no mistake! I myself saw him teaching you how the Great Bear hugs." Then the young couple looked so foolish that the old gentleman shut his eyes out of sheer compassion.

Poet's Memory Livas.

The saying "Christmas comes but once a year" is attributed to Thomas Tusser, a medieval poet (1524-1580), who seems to have been strong on epigrams. The same idea may have occurred to others, but Tusser gave it expression. He was classed as an agricultural poet, partly because he had not much education and partly hecause he treated simple themes, which he understood in a plain and simple way. Tussor had an ear for music, and served to order as chorister in some churches of his day. His first publication was entitled "A Hundred Good Points of Husbandrie," and later he published "A Hundred Good Points of Hushandrie Lately Married Unto a Hundred Good Points of Housewifery," and still later this was amplified into "Five Hundred Good Points of Hushandry United to as Many of Good Housewifery," Reprints of these boks are still extant with an autobiography of the author in verse. Southey, himself a critical poet, characterized Tusser as "a good, honest, homely, useful old rhymster." Some of Tusser's phrases have passed into proverbs.

Looking to the Future. The beautiful lady consuited her attorney, and was received with bows and smiles. "I am glad to tell you," said the legal gentleman, "that your hreach of promise suit has already produced results. The defendant has offered to compromise by marrying you."

"That suits me," declared the beautiful lady. "I'd rather do that than stand a chance of losing a suit, Well, you have done beautifully. What do I owe you for your services?"

"Shail we say $500?" "We shall not. That is altogether too much."

Well, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll cut that bill in two if you will promise to retain me when you sue for divorce."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Learning How to Write.

The following is taken from a page of practical household suggestions published in the Woman's Home Companion:

"My little boy tired very quickly when I tried to teach him to write, so I gave him a cap, a bag and whistle and told him to play letter carrier. Since then he sits down immediately after hreakfast each day and writes a short letter to one of the neighbors, then plays postman and delivers it. The neighbors enjoy the ilttle game. and it is wonderful how quickly he is learning to write and spell with case."

How One County Is Solving the Subdistrict Trustee Problem

The weak or the strong point in each and every rural school in our state is the subdistrict irusiee. If a strong, thoroughly interested man is elected everything is well, but if a careless, indifferent mun holds the office the school Is in bad shape. A good trustee means a clean, comfortable building, a competent leacher and some luterest on the part of the general public. A poor trustee means a badiy kept building, a second or third rate teacher and a tack of interest by the neighborhood.

Pains All Over!

"You are welcome," says Mrs. Nora Guffey, of Broken Arrow, Okla., "to use my letter in any way you want to, if It will induce some suffering woman to try Cardui. I had pains all over, and suffered with an abscess. Three physicians failed to relieve me. Since taking Cardui, I am in better health than ever before, and that means much to me, because I suffered many years with womanly troubles, of different kinds. What other treatments I tried, helped me for a few days only."

Don't wait, until you are taken down sick, before taking care of yourself. The small aches and pains, and other symptoms of womanly weakness and disease, always mean worse to follow, unless given quick treatment.

You would always keep Cardul handy, if you knew what quick and permanent relief it gives, where weakness and disease of the womanly system makes life seem hard to bear. Cardui has helped over a million women. Try it.

WOMAN'S ADVANTAGE IN LIFE SAW FALL OF PAGAN ROME

British Physicians ... of Prominence Give Borns Figures That Expisin Disparity Batwesn, the Saxes, ...

.Though doctors have long realized that, thanks to a ., hetter knowledge of snnithtion and porsonal hygiene, people are living longer than formerly, the much greater relative longevity of women as shown in the recently published British national deht office's report on the mortality of government life annuitants has come as a general surprise.

In a summary of these figues it was shown that the expectation of life of a woman of fifty is now more than a year greater than it was in 1875, while that of a man of the same ago is only three months greater. Discussing the reasons of our increasing longevity and in particular woman's stronger hold on life, physiclans at St. Bartholomew's hospital ndvanced widely different theories. 'The essentisi cause of death," one stated, "is a wearing out from overwork of our hrain celis. Women may be just as brainy as men, hut they do not work their hrain cells as vigorously or as continuously as do their relatives. If they did there would not be so great a disparity in the length of life of the two sexes."

Another consultant puts down woman's greater expectation of life to the more sheltered existence she leads, and the lack of the physically depressing competition which is part of nearly every man's life. "A woman may have hard work to do," he explained, 'hut except for the few who work in offices or who follow professions, they work in their own homes, and at a pace they set for themselves. The home is also, as a rule, vastly more airy, sunny and generally more wholesome than is her husband's shop or

Two young matrons, who are sisters, keep house in their old famtly homestead in Kansas City, Kan. Recently their cook left them. While neither had had much experience in cooking, yet they decided to take charge of the kitchen. They bought three cook books. For Sunday evening lunch it was determined to have sauerkraut and spare rihs. Several friends were ssked in.

The kraut and rihe were put on the fire to boil. Suddenly it occurred to one of the "cooks" that she did not know how long the combination should She asked her sister. She didn't know. The eminent Doctor Llorente, physician to the roysi family of Spain, told a reporter in New York recently that he thinks the American woman is spolled.

"In my own country," said Doctor special breatly astonished. "Ah, truly! Ligrente, "a woman is content to be the good know what is the question of queen of her household, but here weman wants to be both king and queen.

The doctor, smiling, continued: "I was surprised to hear that in and amuse me much more if you some cases the American husband has, actually, to conceal the condition of his finances from his wife in order to curh her extravagances. Thus the rich young wife's complaint to her doctor, a friend of mine in New York would he impossible in Spain, where married people are happy companions.
"'it is so ridiculous,' pouted my friend's young patient, 'to call the man at the bank a "teller." Why, he won't tell you anything. I asked one the other day how much money my husband had ou deposit and he just laughed at me."

Sporting Eismant.

Willie liked ice cream, but he drew the line at turning the freezer. One day when his mother returned home she was agreeably surprised to find him working at the crank as if his life depended on it.

"I don't see how you got him to turn the ice cream freezer," she said to her husband. "I effered him a penny

"You don't go about it the right way, my dear," replied her husband. "I bet him a nickel he couldn't turn it for half an hour."

Rafinement in Trades.

The world as it progresses become if not more refined, at least more delicate in ita phrasea. A generatio the dressmaker became "modiste" and the ready made tailor'

Stones of the Collegem Immertalized Today the Triumphs of a Christisnity That Lives.

Christianity is crystallized in the Coliseum and St. Peter's. In the former by the triumphs of the martyrs; in the latter, hy the dedication of art to the worship of God, writes Bishop Gilmour.

Come with me along the Via Sacra, past the Forum and the Arch of Titus. But a step, and we are at the Coliseum pressed in between the Celina and Paiatine hills, the Arch of Constantine and the Temple of Venus

As we enter, the moon has risen, giving a weird appearance to the scene, as we see its shadows flit, dissoive and lose themselves amid the nrches of this mighty ruin. Amid broken arch and column and vaulted corridor, terraco rises upon terrace tili the blood curdies and the hair stands on end. Memory is husy and hurries us back to when Christian martyr and gentie maid stood within the vast arena io die for Christ.

The emperor is there; the nobility of Rome is there; tier upon tier is densely packed; the wild heasts paw their cages, impatient for the feast; one hundred thousand voices shout, 'The Christians to the lions!" A spring, a growi, a quiver and another hero has gone to God. Every brick, and stone, and grain of sand in this mighty ruin has been sanctifled by the blood shed there. Here a Felicitas and Perpetua, a Cyriscus and Pancras died; here Rome hrutslized herself, and within these walls strove to crush out truth.

Here Pagan Rome fell and Christian Rome rose. The blood of the martyrs was the seed of the church.

GOOD WORD FOR THE OYSTER

London Lancat, Aiwaya Passimistic, Comss Forward With a Surly Meed of Praise.

When the Lancet, representative of the medical profession of Great Britain, says anything good about anything, it is listened to with emotions of mingled surprise and respect. Some one has remarked that every time he picked up the Lancet he discovered he was doing something right along, or taking something that was surely killing him. It has a good word for the oyster just at the time when that apparently innocuous edible is exciting the scrutiny of our always feverish advisers, the hacteriologists. This distinguished if usually alarmist. authority declares that the oyster is a "tonic of the first order, and a complete food, most beneficial to weakened patients and those in whom sppetite is deficient.16 Clinical results of a most favorable nature are reported where oysters are given to persons suffering from tuberculosis. if oysters are indicated for the diet of persons in the state described, they must be wholesome for the rest of us.

There was never any doubt about this, of course, before nervous hacteriologists sought to fill us fuli of fesr instead of oysters. He was a brave man who first ate one raw, according to the philosopher of the hreakfast table; and now the bacteriologists challenge our courage. The Lancet's commendation should heip to sustain timid souls at this crisis.--Providence Journal.

... The Angelue.

I've been reading a life of Millet and was struck with his poverty at the time he painted "The Angelus." When one considers how the pictures may now be found in countiess homes in this and every country, it seems incredible that Millet had trouble selling the original. All his clients hesitated, until at last a Belgian diplomat was persuaded into huying it. About this time Millet wrote, "We have wood only for one or two days. They will not give it to us without money." Better times were ahead, however, and the wonderful pictures eventually brought Miliet at least a living. He is said to have named "The Angelus" in this way: A friend was looking at it for the first time. "What do you think of it?" said Miliet. "I hear the helis ringing. It is the Angelus!" was the immediate answer. "it is indeed!" said Millet. "I am contented. You understood it."—New York Press.

HAVE NO NEED OF THOUGHT

All That, Troubles Eskimo is That They Shall Be Surs of Getting Enough to Eat.

Where the physical struggle for life is at its keenest, as it is among the Eskimos, the years glide by free from the more subtle cares and worries of the civilized man. The Eskimo does not count the days and keeps no record of time. 'All his thoughts are centered on hunting.

Once I asked an Eskimo who seemed to be plunged in reflection, "What are you thinking about?"

He laughed at my question, and ssid, "Oh, it is only you white men who go in so much for thinking! Up hero we only think of our flesh-pits, and whether we have enough for the long dark of the winter. If we have meat enough, then there is no need to think. I have ment and to spare!" I saw that I had insulted him hy crediting him with thought. On another occasion I asked an unusually intelligent Eskimo, Panigpak, who had taken part in Peary's lnst North Polar expedition:

"Tell me, what did you suppose was the object of all your exertions? What did you think when you saw the land disappear behind you and you found yourself out on the drifting ice-floes?

'Think?' said Panigpak, astonished. "i did not need to think. Peary did that!" Eating becomes the great thing with the Eskimos. I once excused myself, when paying a visit, with the plea that I had already eaten and had had enough. I was laughed at, and the answer I received was:

"There thou talkest like a dog! Dogs can he stuffed till they are satisfled and can est no more; hut people -people can aiways eat!"-Knud Rasmussen, in The People of the Polar

MEETING WITH ROBERT BARR

Journsy of a Coupis to Cologne Was Materially Enlivened by the Novslist.

I have a pleasant recollection of Robert Barr, the popular novelist, whose death was recently announced, writes a woman correspondent of the London Chronicle. A relative and I were traveling some years since in Germany, and took the water way to Cologne. Among the numbers of brodchen devouring and heer drinking passengers on the little steamer I noticed one, a man with an eager expression, who was distinguished by his shatinence and hy his absorption in the passing scenery of the Rhine. I got into conversation by chance with the observer, and the whole route to Cologne was from that moment made a living reality to me hy; the man's comment.

The following day we decided to coninue our journey, and again we chose the transit steamer, and again we met the man of recollection and observstion. I tried, by conversational openings, to discover his identity, but he heeded none, continuing to pour out a flood of history and legend of the Rhine. At length the time of parting came. With a sweep of the arm, which included my companion and myyou when you return from this, the journey of your lives," and handed me a card, on which was inscribed the name of Robert Barr. "I don't think we can call together," I replied. for while I live in London, my hyother's home is in the north, and I seldom eatch sight of him on his day trips to town." "Your brother," replied the editor of the idler, "then why the deuce do you both have new luggage?"

Ninety Miles Semewharf.

A traveler waiting for a train in Greenville, S. C., observed a venerable, white bearded gentleman sauntering along the platform, whose appearance invited conversation. He approached the dignified, kind faced southerner with the customsry salutation of Good morning, colonel, do you live here?" "Yes, sah." "Engaged in growing cotton?" "No, sah, I am a statistician." After harvesting his crop of local statistics, I asked him how far it was to Atlanta. He replied that it was about ninety miles, when young man who was standing near interposed: "Oh, no, uncie, it is more 'an ninety miles." The old gentleman atroked his heard meditatively for a moment, shifted his quid and said: 'Waai, Jack, it's ninety miles some whar'-whar's that place anyway, Jack?"

English "Society."

There are three classes of society in England—the aristocrats, who are harharians; the middle class, who are philistines, and the dregs of society, who are nothing at all. It is a funuy thing that the late King Edward, who had all the vices of the aristocrats, was beloved by the middle class, and that his son, King George, who has all the virtues of the middle class, is despises by the aristocrats. He and the queen are always spoken of as George and the Dragon.
